

The Gaston Gazette

50¢

6B

Saturday, February 10, 2007 - The Gaston Gazette

Page edited by Liz Williams

Business

Word on the Street

BY THOMAS J. MONIGAN
tmonigan@gastongazette.com

Southside projects

Over in Belmont, Southside Constructors is still going strong.

Southside has recently completed The Palisades Country Club, located within The Palisades, a 1,500-acre master-planned community just above Lake Wylie.

Via II Architects designed The Palisades Country Club, which was inspired by Vermont's Shelburne Farms. It has 21,000 square feet of space and the project cost about $4 million, according to Southside principal Darryl Kellough.

Southside also just finished a 20,000-square-foot, two-story automobile dealership for Donald Craig Suzuki in Mooresville, a $1 million project. Southside is slated to build two more such dealerships for Donald Craig Suzuki, in Gastonia and Charlotte.

The Palisades Country Club, above, was inspired by Vermont's Shelburne Farms. It has 21,000 square feet of space and the project cost about $4 million. At right, Southside also just finished a 20,000-square-foot, two-story automobile dealership for Donald Craig Suzuki in Mooresville, a $1 million project.

Special to The Gazette

Donald Craig landed in Gastonia last year by leasing property next to the U.S. Postal Service Annex on South New Hope Road in Gastonia. People with the company said at the time this would be a temporary location. So we'll be checking to see where the next move goes.

You can find out more about Southside Constructors at www.southsideco.com.

Do you have an interesting business development? You can contact Business Editor Thomas J. Monigan at (704) 869-1836 or at tmonigan@gastongazette.com.